Since 1992, an organization dedicated to the professional development of staff and faculty advisors.

MACADA offers you support in developing professionally as an academic advisor. Membership will assist you in gaining recognition as a professional around the state.

Academic advisors can network with others who advise at various institutions through attending the annual fall conference and other special meetings sponsored by MACADA.

Connecting with MACADA includes sharing your problems and solutions as well as receiving assistance from others.

Ampler opportunity exists for leadership on the Executive Board. Help shape the direction of MACADA's future by getting involved.

Diversity can be explored through your involvement with MACADA. Your colleagues' variety of experiences will enrich your ability to assist students from many backgrounds.

Academic advisors, counselors, faculty, administrators, and those in academic and student affairs, comprise MACADA membership. Institutional and individual memberships are available to those from accredited institutions of higher education.

MACADA Goals

- Provide quality academic advising services to students
- Establish a communication network
- Support professional development for professional and faculty advisors
- Promote professional standards
- Establish a liaison to the Coordinating Board of Higher Education in Missouri
- Support goals and programs of the National Academic Advising Association (NACADA)
- Establish relationships with other professional organizations
- Promote an award system for academic advising

Membership Benefits

- Grow professionally
- Receive the MACADA News (two issues per year)
- Attend Annual Conferences
- Connect with advisors across the state
- Learn the latest on issues affecting you

Annual Conference

MACADA coordinates an inexpensive, two-day conference, every September, at the Lake of the Ozarks. Sessions address contemporary issues affecting advisement, for new and experienced advisors.
