NACADA: The Global Community for Academic Advising
2015 Annual Awards Program

NACADA: The Global Community for Academic Advising is pleased to offer the 2015 Annual Awards Program. These awards are designed to honor individuals and institutions making significant contributions to the improvement of academic advising.

Reward Systems

Many institutions of higher education have few effective systems in place for the evaluation of academic advising, and little reward or recognition is attached to its successful delivery. Good advising, like good teaching, publication and research, needs to be recognized. NACADA believes a tangible reward system can be an enhancement to effective advising.

Our Goal

The goal of the NACADA Annual Awards Program is to encourage wider support and recognition for academic advising in colleges and universities by providing an opportunity for recognition of outstanding advising. An ultimate outcome of this program is to improve advising services for students.

Awards Presentation

All awards will be presented at the 2015 NACADA Annual Conference being held on October 4-7, 2015 in Las Vegas, NV. The selection committees reserve the right to make no awards in a certain category.

Information and Tips for Nominators

- Self-nominations are acceptable. Directors may nominate their own advising programs.

- Current members of the Board of Directors and Council are not eligible for consideration for any annual NACADA individual awards. After the member's term of office is over, s/he may then be eligible for consideration.

- Nomination materials submitted cannot be returned.

To present your nomination in the best possible light, keep in mind that:

1. Paper copies of nominations will no longer be accepted unless noted otherwise on the award website.

2. It is best to submit only letters and/or materials that add substance to the nomination. Quality is appreciated more than quantity. A well-written and documented submission increases the likelihood of a positive outcome.

3. Letters written directly to the Committee or additional material sent separately from your submission cannot be considered. Be sure to request that all support letters and documentation be returned to the nominator gathering the information for inclusion in the nomination material.

4. Nominations must include only original documentation prepared specifically for the NACADA Awards Program. Materials intended for other award programs will not be considered.

5. Videos, CDs and DVDs will not be accepted in support of any nomination in any category except Advising Technology Innovation Awards.

6. Submissions that do not meet the submission requirements will not be evaluated.

7. Contact NACADA at nacada@ksu.edu if you do not receive an e-mail confirming receipt of your nomination after you have completed the online submission process.

Outstanding Advising Awards

Presented to individuals who have demonstrated qualities associated with outstanding academic advising of students.

Award:
Winners will be honored at the annual conference and receive a complimentary basic registration for the 2015 Annual Conference, a recognition plaque, and a one-year membership in NACADA. Certificates of Merit may be awarded to other nominees.

Categories:
1. Academic Advising-Primary Role — Individuals whose primary role at the institution is the direct delivery of advising services to students.

2. Faculty Academic Advising — Individuals whose primary responsibility is teaching and who spend a portion of their time providing academic advising services to students.

Eligibility:
1. Any individual serving as an academic advisor or faculty academic advisor and employed by a regionally accredited post-secondary institution may be nominated. NACADA membership is not required.

2. Current members of the Board of Directors and Council are not eligible for consideration for this award. After the member's term of office is over, s/he may then be eligible for consideration.

This letter must be printed on institutional letterhead, signed by your Graduate Program Advisor, and uploaded with your application no later than the Tuesday, March 10, 2015 deadline.

NOTE: Paper copies of Student Research Award nominations are no longer accepted. All nominations in this category must be submitted electronically via the NACADA Awards online submission site.

Advising Technology Innovation Awards

The Advising Technology Innovation Awards recognize the most creative and unique uses of technology that support academic advising. Electronic tools used to support and enhance advising can include advising websites, databases, electronic portfolios, online tutorials, software applications, and other forms of technology.

Award

Advising Technology Innovation Award Winners will be honored at the Annual Conference with a recognition plaque. Certificates of Merit may be awarded to other nominees. These award recipients will be widely publicized and recognized at the Annual Conference, through NACADA e-mails, and on the NACADA Awards and Technology in Advising Commission websites.

Categories:

Nominations for the Advising Technology Innovation Awards can be from a wide range of categories in which technology is used in advising. Nominators need to make sure that the review committee can access the innovation being judged by providing a website, a CD or DVD, or a password that provides access to a database or electronic portfolio. In rare cases where access is not possible, detailed screen shots and descriptions of the activity and use of the nomination can be submitted. Submissions must be made in accordance with the processes listed below.

Eligibility

1. Former award recipients, commercial software, and NACADA-sponsored resources are not eligible.
2. Only one entry per institution will be considered.
3. Commercial software that has been adapted to advising uses and is being used by an institution in a creative manner may be submitted for consideration.

Criteria

Advising Technology Innovation Awards and Certificates of Merit will be selected according to the following criteria:

- Content (35%)
- Interactivity (25%)
- Clarity (15%)
- Creativity (15%)
- Overall impression (10%)

A STRONG preference will be given to those nominations that are ADA-compliant (American with Disabilities Act). Those who need help understanding ADA accessibility may contact the current Technology in Advising Commission Chair or the NACADA Executive Office at nacada@ksu.edu.

Nomination Process and Deadline:

Nominations for the Advising Technology Innovation Awards must be submitted using the online submission form found at the following website. Nominations for secured websites, portfolios, databases, etc. must include, whenever possible, a generic ID or password to access a simulated or real system, thus allowing reviewers a more complete understanding of the electronic resource. When completing the online submission form, include an explanation of why the technology or application being nominating is considered to be "innovative". All online nominations must be submitted no later than Tuesday, March 10, 2015.

Online nomination submission site

Individuals wishing to nominate non-web-based innovations (e.g., DVDs, CDs, etc.) must contact Becky at the NACADA Executive Office at rczirger@ksu.edu for submission guidelines prior to submitting the nomination.

NACADA Scholarships

Presented to selected NACADA members who are pursuing graduate education at either the Master's or Ph.D. or Ed.D. level. The program supports a primary goal of the organization, which is to promote professional training of advisors.

Awards:

NACADA Research Grants

The NACADA: The Global Community for Academic Advisinghas a long history of supporting research about academic advising. At present the Association, through its Research Committee, has a particular interest in soliciting proposals involving such topics at the following:

- Conceptual studies of academic advising from the viewpoint of other academic disciplines to analyze the relation of disciplines to the practice of academic advising or to advance our understanding of academic advising.
- Speculative studies examining the role of academic advising in meeting the learning mission of higher education or examining the role of academic advising in preparing students for citizenship in a democratic society. Such studies can be thought of as advancing a philosophy of advising.
- Research examining the specific factors or characteristics involved in effective academic advising and development of assessment procedures using these identified factors or characteristics as outcome measures. Such studies can be thought of as advancing the pragmatics of advising.
- Identification of specific student-learning outcomes as measures of successful academic advising. Included would be delineation of pre- and post-measures to evaluate as benchmarks of student learning that clearly relate directly to the academic advising interaction and process. The committee's complete research agenda can be found at http://www.nacada.ksu.edu/Resources/Clearinghouse/View-Articles/NACADA-research-agenda.aspx.

Research Grants are managed entirely by the NACADA Research Committee. Two submission cycles per year have been implemented for these grants.

For more information on grant proposal guidelines, submission procedures, and deadlines, visit the NACADA website at http://www.nacada.ksu.edu/Resources/Clearinghouse/View-Articles/Research-Grant-Guidelines.aspx, or contact NACADA at (785) 532-5717 or nacada@ksu.edu.
